

LORETTA REVEALS NEWSLETTER MARCH 2017

LR Editor X: March is here.

LR Editor Y: Yes! One cannot miss it. With all of social media screaming how one needs to "March on" non stop.

LR Editor Z: Laughing (ha ha ha) in my opinion, it seems the month comes with even more pressures than "January and the new year resolution jazz".

LR Editor Y: Why do you say so?

LR Editor Z: Most messages and GIF from February 28th to March 1st I got on my phone, whatapps, group chats and Facebook, were emphasizing how one needs to "March on all obstacles in the career, home and personal development arena"
I was beginning to get the overwhelming feeling that there is an on-going war.

LR Editor X: Hmmmm.....but life is some sort of war? We all have to work hard and smart to get what we want and that in itself is "war". What's more, the 3rd month of the year is named after the Roman god of war - Mars.

LR Editor Z: What ever happened to diplomacy?
The connotation that people need to March in a fast and furious manner against all perceived challenges in one particular month can be daunting and even depressive. There are days when we do not have the zeal to lift even a little finger? In my opinion, the emphasis should be on encouraging us all to move forward, irrespective of the pace. Set achievable goals in little chunks and not be pressured to think March is the month when we have to make war on all our life challenges. March should be the month of taking stock, strategizing and refueling with the aim of moving forward. Sometime the pace does not matter but the consistence of forward movement makes the difference.

Hello readers, what do you think of that discussion above? It is the beauty of our team interaction here on LR. No one person has all the answers, however, generating the discuss allows for individual reflection that enhances customized solutions depending on each person's circumstance. We hope it does the same for you.

February here was power packed. We had tips on how to become the most powerful black man in the United Kingdom. Tom Ilube told us how the key to success and power lies in giving back.

"Life is not about wealth, it is about what contribution you make to those around you" Tom Ilube

Next was Kemi Oyesola the Thought Transformation Coach and Mentor. She helped us rethink How2Think.

"Your thoughts are so powerful. They can make or break you. So transform what you are thinking so that your results are also transformed." Coach Kemi Oyesola

Nancy Nnaji nee Illoh was on our "motivational platform" to reinforce the message - being the change we want to see. This multiple award winning Broadcaster, Presenter and Producer who hosts Money Line, the most watched and engaging financial and economic analytic show on the African continent has this to say:

"Many people male or female respect true excellence when they see it. So excel first, then deal with the few "stereotypes" later - you may be surprised how your excellence may have turned them (the sceptics) to converts".

March will be no different on your number one motivational platform.

We have a line up of guest features that will make one further understand the "iceberg nature of success". We do not wish to let the cat out of the bag. All we can say now, is that will start from Zambia and move round the world - so stay with us because you do not want to miss your regular doses of all things motivational.

In the spirit of the month of March and against the background conversation that began this newsletter, take time to give some thought to these wise words below from Joseph Alexander Leighton and Abraham Lincoln:

Human progress is not an uninterrupted march forward. It is a slow and devious movement with haltings and twistings. The pathway of man ascends and descends, wanders off into mazes. At times the trail seems to lose itself in the wilderness of human passion and folly. But inch-by-inch it goes forward with halting steps.

Joseph Alexander Leighton

I walk slowly but I never walk backwards.

Abraham Lincoln
